GLORY Fall

Washington, DC Mission

PARTICIPANT GUIDE

Volume 1 | April 14, 2019

If the foundations be destroyed, what can the righteous do? -Psalm 11:3

God has mandated that Apostle Chika Onuzo and RHFAN raise up an altar in Washington, District of Columbia to release the Glory of God over our country and stamp out the power of the enemy.

The Capitol is the home of the U.S. Congress—the House of Representatives and the Senate. Today, the process of making decisions for our country takes place here, so it makes sense to raise the altar here.

Additionally, we will visit each of 40 boundary stones around the Capitol. Why? In the summer of 1790, the U.S. Congress authorized President George Washington to select a 100-square-mile site along the Potomac River as the new nation's capital. A year later, Maj. Andrew Ellicott, and Benjamin Banneker, a free-born African American, carved out the boundaries of what would soon become Washington, D.C. and marked them with boundary stones.

These boundary stones effectively mark the boundaries of the capital of our country. By raising an altar at each stone, we seal each boundary with Glory so the enemy has no access to return. The Glory of God will reign throughout!
